Cameron School Pupils Write Essays on Forest Protection.

Below will be found several short essays written by pupils in Miss Yull's class, Cameron school, West Coleman. These essays were written some weeks ago at the time of "Save the Forest Week" campaign and were sent to the Forest Supervisor of the Crow's Nest Forest Reserve, who has forwarded copies to the Dept. of Interior and to several publications in the hope that some of the efforts of the young authors will be printed, and thus in a slight degree reward the writers for the interest taken in this praiseworthy object.

The Journal is printing the essays in their original form and they will be believed proof of local interest. Some of the words and phrasing may cause some amusement, but nevertheless they are very creditable when the youthfulness of the authors is taken into consideration.

Care of Forests

The trees are the most useful of all plants grown in any country. The forests supply employment for men in lumber camps, paper mills and in furniture factories. In the forests the animals can find protection among the trees. Birds can build their nests in the trees. We use the lumber for fuel and to make paper. We would rather use a beautiful green forest than a forest of black and charred stumps. Protect the forest while there is yet time

JOE PANEK.

Care of Forests

The forests are very useful if we protect them. We don't have any trouble to put out a match or a camp fire. It is easy to do, but it is not so easy to put out a forest fire. When you go into the mountains you can just imagine where some careless person has been camping. It does not matter if you go camping if you don't start a forest fire, so whatever you do, prevent forest fires.

LAURIER McLEOD.

Dominion Forest Week

Many ask why do we set aside a week called Dominion Forest Week. Any person could easily answer such a simple question. Once a year when this week is set aside all the Forest Rangers come into towns, cities and schools, to tell people what a loss it is to start forest fires. Imagine to yourself if all the country around was a blaze of fire and no place to go for safety. After the fire, the animals would all be gone.

Woodworth Meeting Draws Good Attendance at Grand.

Eloquent Speaker Illustrates His Address With Charts—Cabinet
Has Too Much Power.

Before a large and sympathetic audience in the Grand Theatre in Coleman last Thursday night, J. S. Woodworth, member of parliament for North Centre Winnipeg, attacked the two party system and defended the group principle, advocating that the cabinet be composed not of the adherents of one party only as at present, but of men drawn from all groups in the house. In that way alone would real representative government be realized, he said.

The eloquent leader of the Labor group in the Dominion house, referring to the broader political and economic situation, saw arising larger and newer truths. Under this order individualism must go, giving way to the wider conception of internationalism. The whole world is tied-up so closely to-day, he said, that when one part is affected it influences the entire system. Institutions of government and business must exist for the welfare of the people rather than for the creation of profits for the few.

Defenda Group Idea

Answering attacks made on the so called "group idea," Mr. Woodworth argued that such attacks were unfounded for the two great parties, Conservative and Liberal, were only outgrowths of group action in the past, the landed proprietors on the one hand and the trading class on the other. The common people had no voice in the affairs of the nation until 25 or 30 years ago when they began to see their interests were not being served by the two strong parties. They proceeded, therefore, to organize the British Labor party which had gathered sufficient strength to form a government and while it did not continue long the return of Labor to power in Great Britain was imminent.

Uses Charts

Making use of charts, Mr. Woodworth proceeded to give his audience a lesson in civics, explaining the various departments of government and how they functioned. He said one very serious weakness in our present system was the tremendous power vested in the cabinet. A private member had no right to introduce a money bill, that class of legislation emanated only with the government. Also, any bills a private member might have on the order paper must make way for government business, and thus a member's rights were greatly curtailed. It was similar to a railway in which the freight trains are sidetracked to make way for the express train.

The various institutions of the country—banks, press, schools, industries, churches, etc.—were dominated by the capitalists, charged Mr. Woodworth. The number of banks in Canada had shrunk from 34 to 10 and 70 per cent. of the financial business of the country was done by four banks out of the ten. The interlocking of directorates had created in Canada a vast trust the baneful influence of which was felt in every phase of the country's life. According to Mr. Woodworth, the workers will not come into their own until this centralization of power is broken.

On the platform with Mr. Woodworth were Messrs. F. Whitlock, (chairman), W. H. Hayson, and Wm. White, officials of the local branch of the Mine Workers Union of Canada.

An Interesting Majority

On June fifth and sixth the local congregation of the United Church of Canada will observe the twenty-first anniversary of their church opening. The church was very early on the ground in the history of the town. It has served the community without a break throughout this period.

In twenty years of its history the congregation had only two ministers, Rev. Thos. Murray and Rev. D. K. Allan. These men each served for a period of ten years.

The actual membership is at present ninety and there is a large group of adherents. The Sunday school and staff number one hundred and fifty. The club room is open every evening in the week for groups and classes of children and young people. This phase of the work is limited by lack of accommodation. Seven of our school teachers in our public and high schools give time to teaching in the Sunday School and leadership to week-day groups. The Missionary Society is one of the best in the Lethbridge presbytery and the record of the Ladies Aid is very well known.

A great deal of work and care has been put into the arrangements for the twenty-first anniversary and with a proper and cordial response on the part of the congregation and many friends of the church, the occasion should be a first class success and long remembered.

Rev. E. L. Best, of Fernie, will be the special preacher for the day and will give a popular lecture on the Monday evening, following the Ladies Aid dinner.

What Canada's Jubilee Celebration is About.

Who first conceived the idea of linking together in a strong and permanent union the scattered colonies of British North America, it would be difficult to say. Probably, like a good many other important movements, this idea of Confederation was a gradual growth, simmering in the minds of a few men of vision until the time was ripe to make it a reality. Most people are inclined to associate it with the Fathers of Confederation, but the idea is much earlier than their day. They, however, took hold of it and trimmed and fashioned it into a practicable scheme.

Of the thirty-three Fathers of Confederation, perhaps seven may be regarded as the governing minds. These were the actual Fathers of Confederation—Macdonald, Cartier, Galt, Tupper, Brown, McGee, Tilley, and it is probable that Galt, although little is heard of him today, should rank high even among these. Without the influence and enthusiasm of Cartier it would have been impossible to persuade French Canada to consent to the union; Brown ensured the support of the influential Reformers of Upper Canada; Tupper and Tilley won the Maritimes; McGee by his eloquence swayed the Irish vote; and Macdonald's inimitable leadership piloted Confederation through countless difficulties; but it remains true that without the far-sightedness and enthusiasm and constructive mind of Alexander Galt it is very unlikely if the Dominion would now be celebrating its Diamond Jubilee.

Galt saw, years before his associates, that a union of all the provinces was the only solution of the problem, the only way out of the political tangle which every year was becoming more hopeless. He took the idea of Confederation and, with infinite care, built it up into a complete and practicable scheme. The practical politicians of his day were inclined at first to laugh at him and to brush his plan aside as an impossible dream, but in the

The Spirit of the Jubilee

It is now clearly manifest that the celebration of Canada's Diamond Jubilee will be general throughout the Dominion, and that the ceremonies marking this historic occasion will be colorful, entertaining and instructive as befits the sixtieth anniversary of a nation's birth. The columns of every daily and weekly paper, however small the latter may be, tell the same story of the holding of public meetings and the appointment of committees of representative citizens to plan a fitting celebration on July 1st and the succeeding two days. It is quite evident that it will be a very progressive and well-spirited community which fails to commemorate the inauguration of the Dominion.

The very general interest being displayed is a gratifying evidence of pride which Canadians have come to have in their country. It is an evidence of a real national spirit. Equally gratifying is the way in which local communities throughout the Dominion have accepted the lead of the National Committee and are planning to make Dominion Day celebrations truly commemorative of Confederation, rather than merely days of sporting events. Generally speaking, the ceremonies on July 1st will be patriotic and historical in character, with on July 2nd and 3rd a national holiday in this Jubilee year—sports and other programs will be carried out.

Time, energy and money spent in erecting truly worthy commemorative ceremonies will be well expended only if the true, underlying spirit of the Jubilee is never lost sight of, but, on the contrary, is strongly emphasized. It is urged that every celebration on July 1st should have a "saw, strong, dominant note of patriotism, directing the hearts and minds of all to Canada." Particularly it is desired that in all Dominion Day ceremonies the most prominent place be given to the children of Canada.

The Jubilee ceremonies should very properly recall the condition of Canada prior to 1857, the lack of unity then existing, the suspicions entertained, the doubts and fears for the future which prevailed. It should be remembered that Confederation was devised to overcome those conditions, to find a solution for the existing problems and difficulties. We should as a people revive in our memories the patriotism, the vision, the self-sacrifice of the Fathers of Confederation who forgot all differences of party, of racial descent, of creed, in order to render service to Canada and the Empire. The spirit of the Fathers should be the spirit of this Diamond Jubilee.

Confederation brought union and strength out of disunion and weakness. It has replaced doubts and fears with confidence; discouragement has given place to courage and a justifiable pride. The achievements of the Canadian people in the succeeding sixty years are without a parallel in the history of the world. They have planned and executed a continent with hands of steel; they have created a strong and united nation out of isolated colonies; they have placed their flag on the seven seas, and carried their commerce to the uttermost parts of the globe; even in the fiery ordeal of the world's greatest war they took second place to no other people, but by their self-sacrifice and unflinching labor won the admiration of all men and won for Canada a place of equality with the world's greatest and proudest nations.

But Confederation made more than all this possible. It has resulted in rebuilding the people of Canada to themselves. In working together in the solution of great national problems, in carrying through gigantic enterprises to success, and in devoting their energies to the development of some of the greatest natural resources possessed by any land, they have learned each others good qualities. They have given to the world a great object lesson of how two races, differing in language and in religion, can exercise tolerance and forbearance, and appreciating the contribution which each has to make for the common good, unite to lay the foundations of a united state, progressive, prosperous and happy.

Recalling the difficulties and achievements of the past, glorying in the present, the real celebration of the Jubilee will be found in a reaffirmation of loyalty and a re-dedication of service to Canada on the part of individual citizens. This is the true, underlying spirit of Canada's Diamond Jubilee.

Veteran Missionary Dead

Late Father Cochran Was Prisoner of Indians in Rebellion of 1885

Rev. Fr. Louis Cochran, O.M.I., veteran missionary among the Cree Indians, one-time prisoner in the camp of Poundmaker during the uprising of 1885, died at Battleford recently at the age of 71. One of the outstanding achievements of his life was his work in connection with the surrender of Poundmaker, the Indian chief, and peace parleys which followed.

Fr. Cochran joined the Oblate Order of priests when a young man in France, and following his ordination to the priesthood, came to the northwest, taking up missionary work among the Indians immediately on his arrival.

Striking Success is Obtained With Canadian Alfalfa Seed

The superior quality of northern seed is nowhere more strikingly shown than in the success obtained with Canadian alfalfa seed. For a long time it was difficult to grow alfalfa successfully in many parts of Canada, but the development of an ample supply of hardy strains of seed, due to a certain extent, solved the problem of waterlogging and the Canadian alfalfa crop increased from 25,000 acres in 1920 to 85,000 acres in 1926.

My daughter was in a run-down condition, and was forced to discontinue work. Again Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were resorted to and she was soon restored to excellent health. Sodium Sulphate

Large Deposits Have Been Located in Western Canada

In Canada sodium sulphate, in the form of salt cake, finds its largest use in the pulp and paper industry, and is also employed in the metallurgical, glass, dye, textile and other industries. Eighty-three occurrences of natural deposits of sodium sulphate have been located in Western Canada, and an investigation of 21 of these by the Dominion Department of Mines shows the presence of over 115,000,000 tons of hydrate salts, mainly sodium sulphate.

Canadian Art in Paris

Exhibition of Canadian Paintings

Praised by French Critics

From Charles Stewart, the Paris correspondent of the New York World, comes this comment on the most recent collection of Canada's art in Paris. He says:

"The exhibition of Canadian paintings sent over to Paris under the auspices of the Fine Arts Commission of Canada came into the dingy galleries of the Tuileries annex to the Luxembourg Museum like a fresh breeze of wind from the open spaces of the great Northwest. And it is thus that these works of art have been acclaimed by the French critics. There is much excellence in individual efforts and the show as a whole is of a high order of merit. The greater proportion of the 200 canvases exhibited consists of decorative landscapes, among which 'A North American' and three other paintings by Maurice Cullen are conspicuous by their brilliancy, as are the vividly colored snow scenes by Clarence A. Gagnon. The angle of the landscape form alone' says one of the critics, 'spiritualized through the eyes of the artist does not seem to appeal to the austerity of the Canadian painter.'"

A Strange Coincidence

Fellow Engineers in Chicago Factory Fought Against Each Other in War

Two young engineers, who have worked shoulder to shoulder for more than four years in the peaceful business of one of Chicago's largest industries, has compared notes to discover that each once sought the life of the other to achieve the prime object of their lives. "I shot at you," these men, cited for their bravery by Germany and Canada, are Harry Ratcliffe, 25 years old, whose home is in Winnipeg, and William Seligman, 29, formerly of Frankfort, Ontario. Ratcliffe's credit rolls him with being one of the cleverest machine gunners in the Canadian contingent; Seligman was one of Germany's most expert snipers. By his ability to wipe out machine gun nests, he won the Iron Cross.

Comparing notes, these two men revealed coincidences as strange as fiction. During the battle of Passchendaele, Ratcliffe, a corporal in the "Little Black Devils," 27th battalion, Canadian Expeditionary force, and Seligman, a private of Infantry Regiment No. 368, Imperial German army, were less than fifty yards apart on either side on the eventful day of November 5, 1917.

From his secret vantage point, Seligman recalled, he managed to now down one "Canuck" machine gunner after another. But there was one that he could not get from his gun, which was spluttering death to the Germans. That man, he is certain, was Ratcliffe, who routed the Germans in that warm exchange.

Crown Jewels on Display

Hohenzollern Collection Dates Back to Frederick the Great

Hohenzollern crown jewels, valued at $500,000 and dating back to Frederick the Great, are on public view for the first time in history in 200-year-old Monbijou Castle, Berlin. Amazeant at the gorgeousness of the collection is expressed even by intimate friends of the court, as it was believed that the treasures of Prussian kings were not nearly so vast.

The forty-two salons of the castle, the favorite residence of Frederick the Great's mother, contain the priceless Hohenzollern seals, scepters, the royal saber studded with huge diamonds, valuable snuff boxes of the Great Elector and jewels of Queen Louise. Several rooms contain some of the finest specimens of old porcelain, some of which are more than centuries old.

The castle had not been used as a royal residence for fifty years when it was opened to the Hohenzollern museum. It was closed in 1918, but since the indemnification settlement with the former Kaiser laid the crown jewels, which became the property of the State of Prussia, have been collected and are on exhibition there.

A Cruiser Mine-Layer

Only Vessel of its Kind is Commissioned in England

Just commissioned, H.M.S. Adventure is the only vessel of her type in the world and the first such vessel to be built in England. She is a cruiser mine-layer. The performance of the Adventure will be followed with considerable interest by naval architects as they are expected to yield data of great importance. Engineers are particularly interested in her beautifully intricate and her powerful propelling machinery includes a Diesel plant for use at ordinary cruising speed. She is the first large warship to be thus fitted with internal combustion engines. If the experiment proves successful it will be tried on a larger scale in future cruiser vessels, and may prove the initial step towards motor-propelled warships.

Time-Saving Way of Dyeing

For perfect tinting of dainty under wear, dresses, etc., the easiest way—and by far the best way—is the use of real dyes. It tints in cold water, you know, but dip the garment and it takes whatever tinge you wish to give it. A matter of minutes.

Real dyes will get such smooth and even tones as shams the streaky, whitish tinge of synthetic dye preparations for the purpose. Diamond dye in original powder form is only different from the rest of the dye. It is your own dyeing. They dip to tint—and you will have an effect that is beautiful. And if you want the tint permanent, just use boiling water.

Diamond dyes do a perfect "professional" job of dyeing, too; the druggist has sample shades and simple directions. For a book of endless suggestions, in full color, request a free copy of Color Chart of DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N32, Windsor, Ontario.

Surpassing Last Year's Success

NOT even its electrifying success during 1926—not even its tremendous sales, which more than doubled the best previous first-year record of any new make of car.—Not even these amazing achievements can compare with the present-day triumphs of the New and Finer Pontiac Six!

The reasons for this spectacular advance in popularity are obvious. Always a surpassing value, the New and Finer Pontiac Six now towers above its field like a beacon in the night. Vivid new beauty enhances the fine craftsmanship of its new lower bodies by Fisher. Chassis refinements emphasize the thrilling performance of its famous six-cylinder motor. Fresh and original combinations of enduring Duco lend a marked note of style to its six smart body types.

Yet even with all these improvements the New and Finer Pontiac Six sells for new low prices! Never has such surpassing value been offered in a low-priced quality six. Never has any car of its price kindled such wildfire buying enthusiasm! And never has any car in its class so clearly deserved such success! PF2720 end they were forced to admit that it was not only practicable but the only possible road to peace and security. Galt not only developed the scheme of Confederation, but he, more than any other man, prepared the public mind to accept it.

In season and out of season he talked Confederation, and, although no spell binder, his clear, logical mind, his complete faith in the idea, and the confidence that people had in his integrity, won the support of thousands of citizens who otherwise might have regarded the union of the provinces as a mad and dangerous experiment.

Without questioning for a moment the debt that Canada owes to the genius of Macdonald, in steering the ship of state through the rocks and whirlpools of party, racial and provincial jealousy and misunderstandings into the harbour of Confederation, it is only just to Alexander Galt to remember that he, above all others, sowed the field that Macdonald reaped. Macdonald was a shrewd and cautious statesman. He had no faith in rash experiments. He knew that the wise and successful politician led the people the way they were already inclined to go. Macdonald was indeed the captain of Confederation, but Galt was its prophet.

Scientists Devise System to Measure Speed of Blood in Body

The speed with which the blood travels through the body can now be measured by a system devised by Dr. Herman Blumgart and Dr. Soma Weiss, of the Thorndyke Memorial Laboratory of the Boston City Hospital.

Physicians say the method will be of great value in diagnosing and treating diseases of the heart and circulation system. Attending physicians can now determine accurately just how much of its work the heart is doing. In a statement today, Doctors Blumgart and Weiss describe their system as follows:

"A minute amount of a radioactive substance is injected into the veins of one arm and by means of an electrical detecting device the time of arrival at various parts of the body is noted. The speed with which this radioactive substance is transmitted by the blood gives a measure of the speed of the blood stream."

In the course of time the oldest inhabitant becomes a survivor.

Confederation and After Sixty Years of Progress

The Renaissance of the Buffalo in the West

One of the least creditable incidents in the early history of the west, after the coming of the white man, was the near-extinction of the buffalo, one of the more creditable was the effective steps taken at the last moment to save the buffalo from utter extinction and bring him back, not to anything approaching his one-time numbers, but to a population that ensured the survival of this interesting and valuable animal.

At one time the buffalo ranged over the greater part of North America, and we know from the narratives of many of the early travelers and fur-traders that a hundred years or more ago they travelled in such incredible numbers over the plains of what is now Western Canada that the country was literally black with them as far as the eye could reach. Nevertheless at the time of Confederation they were practically extinct in British North America as well as in the Western States, although it is estimated that they once numbered 75,000,000. How they were exterminated is not a tale to remember.

One of the most picturesque links between the present and the past so far as the buffalo is concerned, is the veteran Canadian poet Charles Mair, still living in Victoria and approaching his ninetieth year. Mair knew the west when the buffalo might still be seen occasionally in their native state, and was so impressed with the tragedy of their extinction that in 1890 he published through the Royal Society of Canada, an appeal that aroused the interest of thoughtful men. Some years later steps were taken to save this vanishing race of native Canadian mammals, with such success as may be seen today in the west.

So it happened that, almost accidentally, a few buffalo had been saved when the rest of the race disappeared. A man named William Pabst finally built up a herd of six hundred in Montana. The Canadian government bought these and had them carefully transported to what is known as Buffalo National Park, in Alberta, about midway between Saskatoon and Edmonton. In this area of one hundred thousand acres the buffalo have thriven and multiplied until even that large area became insufficient to support their numbers.

During the summer of 1925 the experiment was tried of transposing sixteen hundred of these buffalo to the wooded country to the westward of Great Slave Lake, where there were already known to be about two thousand wood buffalo in a natural state. The experiment worked so well that last year over two thousand more buffalo were sent north from the Park; and this year the same number will be taken up to join their brethren. In addition about two thousand animals have been donated from time to time, and disposed of in the public market, to keep down the numbers of the herd. Nevertheless there will be about six thousand buffalo in the Park.

In other words, the handful of buffalo that Pabst started with, or the six hundred that were first brought to the park, have increased to fourteen thousand. That is surely a more satisfactory and a more creditable sight than the countless piles of buffalo bones that once marked the prairies of Western Canada.

Settlers Have Capital
Thirty-four families, bringing capital of $1,141,750, have come to British Columbia from Great Britain already this year, as part of a new movement of people of independent means who will settle there.

COULD NOT

Rash on Arms, Neck and Face. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with an itching rash which broke out in blotches on my arms, neck and face. It itched and burned causing me to scratch, and scratching caused eruptions. My face was disfigured and I had to bandage my arms. I could not rest or sleep on account of the irritation. A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a five sample. I got relief at once so purchased more, and after using one case of Soap and part of a box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Wava C. Carter, Junction Rd., Springfield, N. S., Aug. 20, 1926.

Customs Union in Europe

Movement Started for an Identical Tariff System in European Countries

A move toward an European customs union was deduced by many delegates from a resolution which was given preliminary approval by the economic conference in Geneva. Under this resolution the League of Nations would be empowered to propose measures best calculated to secure either an identical tariff system among European countries or a common basis for the elaboration of long term commercial treaties.

Sub-committees previously had flayed excessive tariff protection and held down the doctrine that nations should remove or at least diminish tariff barriers, which were greatly hampering trade by beginning with those barriers imposed to counteract the effects of the great war.

The granting of unconditional "most favored nation" treatment was declared to be essential to a free and healthy development of commerce.

Grain Carrying Fleet

Big Shipment of Grain From Head of the Lakes Expires a Record

The other day a fleet carrying a little over 8,000,000 bushels of wheat sailed from Port William-Fort Arthur. "Unprecedented," says the Winnipeg Grain Trade Review, "this is the largest shipment of wheat in any one day from any port in the world." There was enough in that one shipment to feed the great city of London for over two months. There was more than all the ocean ports of North America on both coasts have shipped in any whole week during the past month, more than Australia ever shipped in a week, and more than Argentina has shipped in any week this season. All this wheat was not loaded within 24 hours, the greater part consisting of winter storage cargoes, but the facilities at Port William-Fort Arthur are such that a big proportion of this quantity can be loaded in one day and very much more than can be loaded in any other port in any other country.

Mount Macbray

Mount Macbray, 3,020 feet high, is situated to the west of Grant Pass on the Alberta-British Columbia boundary. According to the Geographic Board of Canada, it commemorates the late Most Rev. Robert Macbray, Anglican Archbishop of Daperts Land and Primate of Canada. Archbishop Macbray frequently spent his period of recreation in this district.

Lesson: Acts 5:17-42.

Devotional Reading Psalm 27:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

1. Peter and John Again Imprisoned Are Freed, verses 17-23.—"We cannot but speak the things which we saw and heard," had been the bold declaration of Peter when he and John were brought before the Sanhedrin (our last lesson). Upon their release they continued their preaching, and the people flocked to hear them. The jealousy and enmity of high priests and Sadducees were aroused, and they had the apostles again imprisoned.

"From bitterness preserve me Lord; From jealous thoughts protect my day;

Again the stroke of envy's sword Help me to hold my way."

Ang glad thy soul sufficient grace, To glad at another's prize, And look upon his eager face With sympathetic eyes."

Henry Robinson Palmer
Early the next morning the Sanhedrin learned that their prisoners had escaped, although the prison was found securely locked and the guards at the doors. They learned also that the prisoners were preaching in the temple, and were their common enemies. What could be done with such defiant men who had an unknown ally to help them out of prison?

Diamond Jubilee Celebration

Some Suggestions for Guidance of Committees

The mayor or reverie should call a meeting to form a jubilee committee. The municipal council, educational authorities, representatives of churches, societies and other organizations should be included. The function will be to arrange programs for the celebration, and to appoint sub-committees to deal with such matters as finances, decorations, sports, parades, etc. Public buildings and streets should be decorated with flags and bunting, and citizens generally should decorate their homes.

A good way to get people together is to have a procession. Engage the local band and have the children join. In the parade in which all societies and organizations should have a part. In the parades, floats portraying the history of our country should be included. If floats cannot be made, the young people might arrange historical tableaux, with suitable music. Veterans should also be requested to join the parades. Newcomers in all districts should be especially invited to take part; where there are old settlers, they should be especially asked to join in the celebrations. The flag should be flown in conspicuous places, and the procession should march past and salute.

There might be a picnic or other demonstration, with sports for the children. In the evening there could be a concert with fireworks, and a community bonfire or other illumination.

Prince Likes Small Houses

When the Prince of Wales takes up residence at Marlborough House he will occupy a small home within a house. He always objected to a case of Marlborough House, and alterations have been so carried out that his private suite consists of comparatively small cozy rooms, around which are the big state and reception rooms for visitors and state functions.

Occasionally a man gets so discouraged that he feels like writing poetry.

Prohibition in U.S.

Ramsey MacDonald Believes It is a Great and Praiseworthy Effort
Ramsay MacDonald, former British Prime Minister, after completing a month's visit to the United States, believes prohibition is a "great praiseworthy effort to keep people decent and does not merit the sneers of visitors who find it a subject for smartness."

"So many of our smart people have been over here and sneered at the law, but when I go back I am going to take the other side," he said. "Two things have touched me very much, first, the very cordial greeting I received from the press of all colors and parties in the United States, and second, the great personal care I had during the three weeks of my illness."

"I am tremendously impressed with the need of America and Great Britain to understand each other. I do not want alliances; I don't want armaments; I don't want entanglements of any kind, but I do want understanding."

"It is essential that the best type of Britisher and the best type of American should come together. There is so much smart flashiness, jazz dancing and high society ignorance from both sides and being taken on both sides as representative, that men and women of good will ought to work hard to reveal the more permanent good qualities of each other."

Breaking Western Rye Grass Sod

The highest yield of wheat obtained for the first and second years after breaking western rye grass sod at the Scott, Saskatchewan, Experimental Station, was obtained by breaking early in June and treating as summer-fallow. Breaking in the spring and seeding wheat gave a considerably smaller yield per acre in both the first and second years. When it is desirable to take a crop of hay the year the lupd is broken, very fair results may be obtained by breaking in July and backseeding in September.

CANADA'S THREE SCORE YEARS OF NATIONHOOD

Very literally are the Provinces of Canada bound together by bands of steel. As a matter of fact, British Columbia became a Province of the Dominion in 1871 under promise of railway connection, though the actual linking-up did not become a reality till 1885. The enormous development of railroading has been one of the outstanding features of the sixty years that have elapsed since Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia united under one central government in 1867. At that time the new-born Dominion boasted 2,278 miles of track; it has over 42,000 miles today. In equipment, too, evolution has been great. The wood-burner of 1867, though capable of very creditable speed, was a pigmy in size, weight and strength compared with the huge locomotives of today. Mr. C. W. Jefferys, Canada's foremost historical artist, here graphically depicts the changes that have taken place.

Cameron School Pupils Write (Continued from Page One)

the grass all burnt and all the forest a hopeless mass of ruin. If this kept on year after year where would the lumber come from to make paper for books, lumber for houses, ships and the telephone poles. All the Empire would have to go back to the days of our ancestors when they lived in caves and wrote on slabs of rock. When the Forest Ranger comes to your school or town observe everything he says very closely.

RUDOLPH KWASNEY.

The Care of the Forest

We should take care of the forest because it employs many men in lumber camps, in paper and saw-mills and in furniture factories, and carpenters who build houses with lumber. The spruce tree is made into pulp wood, the pulp wood is made into paper for books, scribbles for school and for newspapers. Near most of the mountains there are big trees for the fish like shady places to stay in. When a forest burns down many young birds are killed if they cannot fly. The animals move away from burned forests because they have no place to shelter their young and themselves. Fires cause many dollars to be lost because the trappers have no place to trap if the animals move away. Therefore it is the duty of every boy and girl, every man and woman, as a citizen of Canada, to protect the forests by preventing forest fires.

LADDIE BOBBITT

Why we Take Care of the Forest

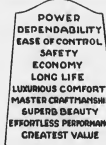

There are many uses of the forests. There are the mills where

The Things You Take for Granted when you buy a McLaughlin-Buick

ALL the really important things about an automobile, McLaughlin-Buick owners take for granted—

Because McLaughlin-Buick designers and builders take nothing for granted.

Constant seeking to improve on McLaughlin-Buick quality has resulted in some of the most important automobile advances of the century . . . the McLaughlin-Buick engine, vibrationless beyond belief, with its triple seal against excess wear . . . the Sealed Chassis . . . the Vacuum-cleaned Crankcase, which solves once for all the problem of oil-dilution . . . the McLaughlin-Buick Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, unsurpassed for dependability . . . the princely beauty and luxurious comfort of McLaughlin-Buick Fisher Bodies.

they make the paper for scribbles, storybooks and newspapers. If there was no forests we would have no desks or houses. From the trees we get the lumber to make furniture. From the fruit-trees we get fruit to eat. If there were no forests there would be no animals or birds. If there were no forests many people would be out of work for thousands are employed in the lumbering industry. When forests are burnt down millions of dollars are wasted.

DILYS BROWN.

The Reason Why We Prevent Forest Fires

Our forests look very beautiful when they are green, but they are not very nice when they are black. The lumber is of greatest use to man. We get paper, furniture, lumber, fruit from our trees. When the forest is burned the animals and birds go away and never come back. If all boys and girls and grown up would not be so careless the forest fires would not destroy our beautiful forests.

Local and General Briefs.

Mr. H. T. Halliwell, of Weyburn, Sask., one of the proprietors of that excellent weekly newspaper, The Review, spent the week-end in Coleman. This was Mr. Halliwell's first visit to the Canadian Rockies, and needless to say, he was delighted with the magnificent scenery surrounding Coleman, and he was also astonished to learn of the tremendous industrial development which is taking place in Coleman and vicinity.

Mr. P. Fontana, of Coleman, was elected by acclamation to the position of Vice President of the Ordine Independenti Fior d'Italia, at the annual convention of this well known body held in Lethbridge last week. This is the second year in succession that Mr. Fontana has held this high office in the order.

Mr. J. A. McDonald, proprietor of the Empire Hotel, received the sad news on Saturday last that his father, Mr. James McDonald, had passed away at his home in Antigonish, N.S., at the ripe old age of 92 years. Jack's many friends in Coleman will regret to learn of his bereavement.

Victoria Day passed off very quietly in town. The tennis courts were the scene of most of the activity locally and were busy all day. A baseball game scheduled between Hillcrest and the local nine in the evening failed to materialize, owing to Hillcrest not showing up.

Mrs. Susan Haxton, of Calgary, is spending a few weeks in Coleman the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Milley and Mr. and Mrs. A. Beveridge, before leaving Canada on a trip to her old home in Scotland.

Mrs. H. Wilton Clark and daughter Dorothy Jane, who have been on a visit to Didsbury for the past two months, arrived home on Sunday morning last.

The Cowley 24th of May sports had to be postponed owing to wet grounds. A number of local people who intended going to Cowley motored to Lundbreck Falls and spent the day.

The Coleman Groceria, Stephen Janotak proprietor, is now located in new quarters on Main street in the building recently vacated by J. M. Rushton.

Rev. H. J. Bevan, who has been attending a Presbytery meeting at Lethbridge, returned home on Sunday morning last.

Graham Bros. are busily engaged this week in redecorating the interior of the Miners hospital.
